In this talk co-sponsored by BVGT, gifted guru Patty Gatto-Walden, Ph.D. takes a holistic view of twice exceptionality, helping parents grasp common issues from a child's internal perspective.

Being 2E has intellectual, emotional, physical, ethical/moral and social dimensions. We will explore how being 2E affects the inner life of a child - including his/her self concept and esteem, home and school behaviors as well as relationships. Dr. Patty will discuss common 2E challenges including processing speed, working memory, and executive functioning difficulties. This talk will offer specifics on how parents and others can positively respond to 2E children's needs, providing the educational and home support and nurturance a child really needs.
